Company Outing 2013

Taking time away from work and routine allows the body to replenish and repair itself. Leisure activities, including taking vacations contributes to higher positive emotional levels, believing in the restorative power of taking time off so we'll be more productive and healthy.

NAESS scheduled an outing to Boracay to allow its staff to take good amount of time away from the stresses of daily life and be able to give a break the company needs so that they can return to their lives refreshed and better equipped to handle whatever comes, not to mention having quality time with family and friends.

Boracay seems to have been designed for vacation. With sand of a texture found nowhere else, clear water of unearthly blue shade and with the sunset that rarely fails to put on a show. Boracay remains one of the country's great destinations.

Where to Find Boracay:

Boracay Island is located in the Philippines Archipelago approximately 300km South of Manila. Boracay can be reached from Manila by air within 1 hour. There are daily flights to Boracay from the domestic airport in Manila to Caticlan or Kalibo Airport on Panay Island. The boats are located at the Jetty Port in Caticlan which is 5 minutes from Caticlan Airport. The final trip to Boracay Island is a short 10 minutes boat ride.

For those who like to engage in something energetic while enjoying the beauty of nature has to offer— Boracay is the island destination. It is one of the best facilities for beach sports and other outdoor pursuits. It is undoubtedly a combination of beach life, nightlife, water sports and overall holiday appeal.

For two days, NAESS Staff were able to experience what life in Boracay feels like...

Boss Migs' Birthday Celebration

Mr. Oca, or Boss Migs as we call him, celebrated his birthday last June 28, 2013. The celebration started with a mass of thanksgiving and then followed by a sumptuous lunch. The event was attended by the celebrator's family and friends in the industry.

Hospital Window

Unknown Author

Two men, both seriously ill, occupied the same hospital room. One man was allowed to sit up in his bed for an hour each afternoon to help drain the fluid from his lungs. His bed was next to the room's only window.

The other man had to spend all his time flat on his back. The men talked for hours on end. They spoke of their wives and families, their homes, their jobs, their involvement in the military service, where they had been on vacation.

And every afternoon when the man in the bed by the window could sit up, he would pass the time by describing to his roommate all the things he could see outside the window. The man in the other bed began to live for those one-hour periods where his world would be broadened and enlivened by all the activity and color of the world outside.

The window overlooked a park with a lovely lake. Ducks and swans played on the water while children sailed their model boats. Young lovers walked arm in arm amidst flowers of every color of the rainbow. Grand old trees graced the landscape, and a fine view of the city skyline could be seen in the distance.

As the man by the window described all this in exquisite detail, the man on the other side of the room would close his eyes and imagine the picturesque scene.

One warm afternoon the man by the window described a parade passing by. Although the other man couldn't hear the band - he could see it in his mind's eye as the gentleman by the window portrayed it with descriptive words. Days and weeks passed.

One morning, the day nurse arrived to bring water for their baths only to find the lifeless body of the man by the window, who had died peacefully in his sleep. She was saddened and called the hospital attendants to take the body away. As soon as it seemed appropriate, the other man asked if he could be moved next to the window. The nurse was happy to make the switch, and after making sure he was comfortable, she left him alone.

Slowly, painfully, he propped himself up on one elbow to take his first look at the world outside. Finally, he would have the joy of seeing it for himself.

He strained to slowly turn to look out the window beside the bed. It faced a blank wall. The man asked the nurse what could have compelled his deceased roommate who had described such wonderful things outside this window. The nurse responded that the man was blind and could not even see the wall.

She said, "Perhaps he just wanted to encourage you."
